WHAT THE CLUB MAY DO

NOW that the Tonopah Automobile club has decided to resume its activities, it is the duty and privilege of all to interest themselves in this movement. It is difficult to calculate the good that will result to the community through the agency of this body, for with the closing of the Sierran passes by snow, all auto travel must be directed this way.

Eastern tourists consider Nevada, particularly southern Nevada, as a terra incognita, a place where dangers lurk and where difficulties will be encountered, for they remember the maps in their old geographies, picturing this as the Great American Desert. The desert has passed and is conquered by man, with its lines of telegraph and telephone lines and its railways, as well as its oases of farming communities and mining camps.

The east needs to be educated up to the knowledge that it is easy and pleasant going across southern Nevada, with garages, supply stations and hotels at frequent intervals. That this is an all year route and that from Tonopah westward there is a choice of three ways by which to reach the coast.

The Tonopah Automobile club may perform an excellent work along the lines of education and hospitality and it is to be hoped that a great interest will be taken in the revival of the organization.

MILLS AND SMELTERS NEEDED

LACK of adequate milling and smelting facilities is the cause of depression of the mining industry in certain quarters, while it is curtailing production in others. There is no reason why the mines should remain idle, or worked in but a perfunctory manner, when they contain vast treasure, blocked out and ready to send out for reduction. The individuals and companies that operate custom plants in this state are rewarded with heavy revenues. The owners of the establishments have in several instances gained sudden and substantial fortune.

Yet the small mine owner and the leaser has great difficulty in disposing of his product, and at terms that are almost prohibitive in some instances, particularly in the base metal districts.

There should be more mills and more smelters in this state, and the only conceivable reason is the threats or promises directed by the trust toward any who undertake such projects. Nevada has cheap power in abundance, developed from water power, the cheapest source of energy known. It has all manner of fluxes and even coal measures for the production of coke. If the mining industry in this state is to continue to grow in volume of output, it will become necessary to provide better means for treatment of the ores.

THE AMERICAN SPIRIT

THE important issue of the campaign in 1916 will be protection for all American industries, whether of the farm or factory, and tariff for revenue only and free trade. The Republicans, championing protection with its successes, will have the advantage ground over the Democrats, with revenue only and free trade failures, and always the stagnation of business, closing of factories and creating an army of unemployed. The attempt to make the European war the leader for Wilson will not pass muster with the people, for they are more concerned about the betterment of home conditions than the aggrandizement of the national administration over the mystery of the doubtful outcome of the European trouble. The restitution of business is important, the closed factories opened, the army of unemployed set to work, to preserve the American market to all Americans alike under an adequate protective policy, and more so than any other question or questions. Keep in mind our own interest first. That is the American spirit, that is the right spirit, that is the spirit, that is what inures to our benefit, and our success should be considered first and the trouble abroad secondly.

HOW SOME PEOPLE "GET BY"

ONE carried a bucket and the other a cane. One was grimy, horny palmed and unshaven. The other was groomed and manicured. He rattled gold pieces in his pocket and threw one of them on the bar. The one searched through several pockets until he found the "bit" for his "off shift drink."

It was a contrast that was striking and it evoked the query: "How happens it that the pink complected gentleman, with no employment and no outside resources should be so neatly appareled and the mucker so ill appearing and so apparently low in resources?" It was such a query, doubtless, that caused Congressman Mann to prepare his famous bill.

CLIPPED AND CREDITED

If your hyphen offend you, pluck it out.—Boston Transcript.
If it is true that President Wilson's fiancée is a descendant of Pocahontas he ought to have a cinch on the John Smith vote.—Galveston News.

An exchange says England has just "a toe-hold" on the road to Constantinople, which would be fine if she could tip-toe in.—Atlanta Constitution.

Holland's friendly attitude toward Great Britain is so much appreciated by Londoners that they have adopted the Dutch treat.—New Orleans States.
The Russians have brought down the latest type of German aeroplane, the "two-tails." Just what sort of salt they used isn't stated.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

These gains and losses of so many yards are apt to muddle the reader so he will not know whether he is reading the football news or the war reports.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

The latest peace forecast from Great Britain is a call for 3,000,000 more men.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

MEADOW LARKS AFFORD SPORT

For an arid region, the valleys below Tonopah are wonderfully alive with birds, particularly meadow larks, which fly in swarms and do considerable damage at the vegetable garden. The birds are not protected and they are being killed in large quantities. They are said to be the basis of the most delicious potpie ever concocted, although difficult to prepare for the stew pot. The reason these birds are not protected is the rapidity with which they multiply and the damage they do to crops, for they are voracious and carefully selecting epicures. By the way, there is considerable green stuff for the sustenance of birds on the desert at present. The wild geraniums are in a sparse second bloom and the flowers that bloomed in the spring are well seeded for the winged diner.
